Key words: tourism, tourism administration, organizational frame, public authorities.

1. Introduction
Tourism is an extremely complex and sophisticated industry, which includes and interconnects sectors and fields of different industries from all over the world. This is the reason why tourism needs coordination and cooperation, aspects that only the public administration, through its institutions, has the authority and the mechanisms to organize.

As any other activity field, tourism, in order to have a coherent unitary and efficient evolution, needs a proper institutional frame for functioning and organization.

2. Organizational and Historical Frame of Romanian Tourism
The first trials, in our country, for organizing touristic activities were found in the 19th century, when several associations, organizations, societies, clubs etc. had private initiatives.

Among companies with touristic activity we can mention: Romanian Society of Geography (Societatea Română de Geografie) (1875), The Carpathian Society of Sinaia (Societatea Carpatina din Sinaia) (1895), The Romanian Tourist Society (Societatea Turiştilor Români) (1903-1916). Among the pioneering tourism associations we can mention: The Alpine Association of Transylvania, from Brasov –

The first official governmental organization was constituted in 1926, having as a goal the orientation of tourism for the benefit of the communities, the organizing of touristic advocacy and popularization of hydropathical resorts. This official organism, called The National Office of Tourism, was created as a spa inspectorate attached to the institution Spa Resorts Administration, subordinated to the Ministry of Labor, Health and Social Protection. After the split of this ministry in two, in 1930, the office passed under the supervision of the Ministry of Labor, along with the Office of People Education under the name of Tourism Service. Trying to support the development of the Romanian tourism, this service created a Central Office of Tourism – with a propagandist aim, that was supposed to become a National Office of Tourism, being one of the first trials of operative orientation, practical in the field. In 1931, the office, together with the Office of People Education is transferred from the Ministry of Labor to the Ministry of Public Instructions and Religious Affairs.

An important step towards the institutionalization of Romanian tourism was done in 1933, when, for the first time, the coordination of the touristic activity was given to an organ by itself, The Department for Preparing Tourism Organization in Romania, functioning next to Presidency of the Council of Ministers responsible for tourism propaganda and conduct of international relations.

The official institutionalization of tourism was done in 1936, by founding of National Office of Tourist (O.N.T.), functioning next to the Ministry of Interior and by issuing the Law for tourism organization. During the 2nd World War, the touristic activity was suspended, being stopped, as well as the activity of the National Office of Tourism.

Passing the tasks of the ex National Office of Tourism (O.N.T.) onto the General Confederation of Labor happened in 1949. Following this, the Department of Tourism and Excursions was created within the Central Council of Unions, which took over the exploitation and administration of the material structure of tourism and started organizing touristic activities. Later on, the Spa Commission and the Sports – Tourism Commission came into being, which, together with the Department of Tourism and Excursions were making the link with the Central Council of Unions, in order to coordinate and organize the tourism activity in Romania.

As a result of the growth of the touristic phenomenon and the necessity of involving the Romanian tourism in the international hospitality circle, the need of a governmental body which would coordinate the touristic activity at a national level was demanding. Therefore, The Carpathians National Office of Tourism came into being in 1955, as a governmental economic company for exterior commerce, under the supervision and control of the Ministry of Foreign Trade. Starting with 1957, the internal touristic activity, coordinated by the Department of Tourism and Excursions within the Central Council of Unions coordinated by the Tourists Association of Romania within the Union for Sports and Sports - U.C.F.S. (association that came into being in 1957 and took the tasks of the ex Department of Tourism and Excursions within the Central Council of Unions) took place in the same time with the international activity, ensured by The Carpathians National Office of Tourism. In order to ensure a unitary exploitation of the material base and to grow the touristic activity, in 1959, The Carpathians National Office of Tourism took over the internal tourism, thus, becoming an economic institution with a profit, functioning under the control of the Ministry of Foreign Trade.

The improvement of the administrative organization of Romanian tourism, in order to increase the internal and external tourism and the increase of the incoming currency, was done in 1967, through changing The Carpathians National Office of Tourism into an organ of state administration. The National Office of Tourism of Socialist Republic of Romania was introduced by Government decision no.32 of 27th of January 1967 and approved by Law no. 3 from 26th of July 1967, as a central body administration, which accomplished the state’s policy in the field of tourism and coordinated the tourism activity in the Socialist Republic of Romania. The management of The National Office of Tourism of the Socialist Republic of Romania was ensured by the College. Inside The National Office of Tourism was functioning the Council of Tourism in order to coordinate the activities within the tourism field. The organizational structure of the National Office of Tourism included central agencies, a general branch, departments, offices, etc.: The Central Agency “Carpaţi” for the international tourism, the Central Agency O.N.T. for internal tourism, General Department of Hotels and Restaurants, Department of Investments and Supply, Department of Touristic Propaganda, Department of Economic Plan and Accounting, Department of Studies and Market Condition, Department of Staff, Control Body, Secretarial Office and Household, Legal Office, Arbitration of National Tourism Office, Office for receiving, accountancy and following up of complaints solving. The National Office of Tourism had under its supervision companies, agencies, brances and tourism offices, including tourism offices abroad.

Since then, the public administration has known a constant evolution. In fact, tourism hardly got introduced inside the ministerial structures due to the heterogenous aspects of the field and of different forms in approaching the tourism phenomenon.

The first form of administrative organization of Romanian tourism as a ministerial structure was done in 1971 through the implementing of Ministry of Tourism, based on the Order no. 539 and approved by Law no. 27 from 17th of December 1971. The management of the Ministry of Tourism was ensured by a college, deliberative organ, which decided on general problems related to tourism. The college had as members the minister, the first deputy and minister’s deputies, general secretary and directors of the Ministry of Tourism, leaders of some subordinated units, specialists in tourism and a Unions delegate. The Ministry had as manager a minister, a first deputy, three deputies and a general secretary. Next to the Ministry of Tourism, the Tourism Council was functioning as an advisory body. The organizational structure included general head offices, head – offices, offices: The Head Office of International Tourism, The Head – Office of Internal Tourism, The Head – Office of Hotels, Restaurants and Tourism Benefits, the Head Office of Propaganda, The Spa Head - Office, Technical Department of Investments, Department of Economic and Financial Plan, Department of Organizing, Control and Inspection for Tourism, Department of Staff - Education, Administrative – Secretarial, Judicial – Arbitration Office. The Ministry had under its direct supervision offices, units – with a status of station and travel agencies, companies, publishing houses, branches and tourism offices, study and research centers, schools, vocational centers, computing centers. Tourism agencies were open abroad. Each county, except for Constanța and Tulcea, organized county tourism offices, organized as individual units, functioning as specialized local bodies, subordinated to the executive committees of Popular Councils of each county and the Ministry of Tourism. There were as well county councils of tourism and of Bucharest, as consultative bodies, which were functioning next to the county offices of tourism and Bucharest. The Ministry supported the Office of Tourism for Youth and guided the activity of the Romanian Car Club (ACR).

The post communist period marked the change, therefore the organizing and foundation of the Ministry of Trade and Tourism, as a central organ of the state administration, legal person, is enforced by Governmental Decision no. 805 of 20th of July 1990, modified afterwards by the Governmental decision no. 1170/1990 and Governmental Decision no. 598 of 2nd of September 1991. Three departments were supposed to function for the ministry: The Department of Exterior Commerce, the Department of Interior Commerce and the Department of Tourism. Before of December 1989, the organizational frame of Romanian tourism administration had different forms:
- ministry: Ministry of Tourism (December 1971 - December 1989);
- organ by itself: Council for Preparing Tourism Organization in Romania (1933-1936);
- inspectorate for tourism, organized under the subordination of a ministry: O.N.T under the Ministry of Labor, Health and Social Protection (1926-1930);
