

GASTRIC LYMPHOMA

Marius Lazar MD¹, Andrei Ungureanu MD²,
Assistant Daniel Ciurescu MD³

¹ Clinical Emergency County Hospital Brasov,
Dept. of Surgery I

² Clinical Emergency County Hospital Brasov,
Dept. of Internal Medicine IV

³ Faculty of Medicine, “Transilvania” University Brasov

Gastric lymphomas have an increasing incidence, representing up to 7% from all the gastric tumours and 10% from the lymphomas. Isaacson and Wright have used this concept for the first time in 1983 in order to designate an entity with unique biological properties. Later on these entities have been referred to as extranodal MALT lymphomas.